Ms. Stewart,

Confirming our telephone conversation today, I submit my resignation as the Transportation Advisory Commission representative to the Design Commission effective December 11, 2013. I will continue serving as a member of the Transportation Advisory Commission. The reasons for my resignation are that the meeting date has been changed from Monday evenings to Tuesday evenings, making it harder for me to meet other time commitments, and there is now a TAC member, Blair Miller, who has formal training in one of the fields related to the work that the Design Commission does, who has also served the requisite year on TAC to be eligible for appointment. The technical nature of the work done by the Design Commission is better carried out by members with subject matter competence beyond that which I have, and Ms. Miller has relevant training. I have enjoyed my time as a member of the Design Commission, and have appreciated the opportunity to serve.
