

United States Department of the Interior
National Park Service

National Register of Historic Places
Continuation Sheet

Section number 10 Page 65

Old Pasadena Historic District Amendment
Los Angeles County, California

Boundary Justification

The boundaries are generally the same as those in the original application for the district. They have been adjusted slightly for two reasons: first to include contributing buildings that were inadvertently left out of the original application and second to exclude new noncontributing buildings on the edge of the district.

The heart of the district is the intersection of Colorado Boulevard and Fair Oaks Avenue. The district emanates from that point in an irregular manner and includes the densest concentration of buildings associated with the historic business district of Pasadena. The vast majority of the buildings in the district are commercial; however, there are a few residential buildings, churches, and social halls. The district is generally bounded on the north by modern office buildings and the 210-Foothill Freeway, on the east by the Civic Center and the Santa Fe railroad tracks, on the west by the Long Beach Freeway, and on the south by later industrial development.

United States Department of the Interior
National Park Service

National Register of Historic Places
Continuation Sheet

Section number 10 Page 66

Old Pasadena Historic District Amendment
Los Angeles County, California

Photographs

The following is the same for all of the photographs:

City: Pasadena

County: Los Angeles

State: CA

Photographer: Jessica McKenzie

Date: November 2006

Location of Negatives: City of Pasadena, Design & Historic Preservation, 175 North Garfield,
Pasadena CA 91101-1704

1. East Colorado Boulevard, south side of the street looking southwest toward the intersection of South Fair Oak Avenue. Mostly contributing buildings.
2. South Fair Oaks Avenue, west side of the street looking northwest toward the intersection of West Colorado Boulevard. Contributing and noncontributing buildings.
3. North Raymond Avenue, west side of the street looking northwest toward 61-69 North Raymond. Contributing and noncontributing buildings.
4. North Delacey Avenue, west side of the street looking southwest toward Penn Oil Building, 35 North Delacey Avenue. A contributing building.
5. South Delacey Avenue, east side of street looking southeast toward 42 South Delacey Avenue/39 Mills Place. A contributing building.
6. Christensen Alley looking southwest at rear of buildings that face West Colorado Boulevard.
7. Central Park, looking northwest. A contributing site.
8. Friendship Baptist Church, 80 West Dayton Street, looking southwest. Individually listed and a contributing building not originally included in the district.
9. South Delacey Avenue, east side of the street looking northeast toward 108-112 South Delacey Avenue. A contributing building not originally included in the district.
10. West Colorado Boulevard, south side of the street looking southwest at 90 West Colorado Boulevard. A noncontributing building.
11. West Colorado Boulevard south side of the street looking southwest toward Jake's, 40 West Colorado Boulevard. A noncontributing building.
12. South Fair Oaks Avenue, east side of the street looking east toward Union Garage, 300 South Fair Oaks Avenue. A noncontributing building.